Weddings – Information

Principal Photographer

Chelsea has a contemporary style and a special talent for capturing those emotionally charged, candid moments you never want to forget. She immediately makes you feel at ease to ensure even the posed-photos are as naturals possible. You know, the ones that nan will what for her collection!

Through her lens she captures the tiniest of details right up to the awe-inspiring moments of the day. The end result is a beautiful storybook reiterated solely in picture-form.

2nd Photographer

Photographycs uses only qualified and skilled photographers for all of their photographic assignments. These uniquely selected professionals are at hand for couples that require a 2nd shooter.

They are responsible for assisting the Principal Photographer to ensure the shoot runs smoothly and on-time. Helping also with lighting effects and the styling and organisation of the family group photography session and location shoots with the bridal party.

When you have two photographers, you have double the shots. The same scene can be viewed from various angles. While one photographer also can be responsible for the up-close details of the day, while the other can use a wide angle which encapsulates the entire scene.

2nd shooters are essential if you require photography of all pre-ceremony preparations of both the bride and groom at separate locations.

Selecting the Right Photographer for you

You will be spending one of the most memorable days of your lives with your wedding photographer. So, take into account the personality of whom you choose.

Photographycs photographers are trained to try and blend in and be as unobtrusive as possible. We shoot in small bursts throughout the day, meaning we shoot for a bit and then give you a break so it's not too much like a paparazzi invasion.

All photographers will have their own unique style. Photos that one photographer may create will vastly differ to another photographer. I strongly encourage you to compare the work of a number of photographers to ensure you find the right photographer for your wedding day.
